MEXICO IS FAVORABLE TO LEAGUE

RESOLUTION IN SENATE EXPRESSES PRAISE OF WILSON

FIRST INDICATION OF PEACE STAND

Immediate Collection of All Royalties Will Not Be Forced Is Decision.

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Mexico City, March 19.—There were made public today resolutions introduced in the Mexico senate—but not yet acted upon, in connection with the league of nations project. One of the resolutions expresses "sympathy and admiration" for President Wilson, and the other declares the Mexican senate "wishes that the noble democratic proposals of President Wilson which it admires and applauds, be realized, and manifests its desire that it has the opportunity the Mexican republic wishes to form a part of the proposed league of nations."

Thus far these resolutions have been the only expression available in any way indicating Mexico's stand relative to the proposed league.

Resolution Not Acted On.

The resolution regarding the league was introduced December 13, just before the adjournment of the senate. Its appearance in print today was the first intimation that such action had been officially projected. The lack of a quorum was given as the reason the resolution was not acted on.

The news articles carrying the text of the resolution quote Juan Sanchez Azcona, senator from the federal district and chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, as saying that the majority of the senate favors the league and the participation of Mexico in it.

Will Not Force Oil Claims.

The Mexican government has no intention for forcing the immediate collection of royalties on oil production in this country during January and February, under the terms of the President Carranza's decree, February 18, according to a statement authorized tonight by the branch of the treasury department in charge of petroleum revenues.

The announcement was made after dispatches sent from Washington March 11 to the effect that the decree reopened the whole question of the rights of foreign companies, as called to the attention of the department. It was said that the action of President Carranza was taken merely as a matter of record, since petroleum affairs have been in a state of suspense since the decree relative to the oil business were issued last August.

Necessary to Fix Royalties.

It was pointed out that it was necessary to fix royalties to carry out the provisions of previous decrees.

It was asserted the department that at what problem would be laid before congress and that there would be no collection of royalties until that body acts.

The principal argument against the bill was made by former Assemblyman E. W. Crosby, of Nellville. Crosby claims that the people within the proposed county were not enthusiastic for the change, that the idea had been boosted by leading business men of the state in order to keep that town from dying out.

Herren Fraendorfer and Unterleiter were members of the cabinet of the late Premier Eisner. Herr Seitz has been minister of the interior, succeeding Eisner, and was shot dead in the firing in the Bavarian diet after the assassination of Eisner.

Will Represent Working Women of America at Peace Conference

Miss Rose Schneiderman and Miss Mary Anderson have been appointed by President Wilson to represent the working women of America at the peace conference. Miss Schneiderman is the head of the Shirtwaist Workers' union in New York. Miss Anderson is a member of the executive board of the International Boot and Shoe Workers' union.

CREATION OF PERSHING COUNTY IS DISCUSSED

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, March 19.—For over three hours Tuesday afternoon at the assembly committee on state affairs listened to arguments for and against the bill to create the new county of Pershing out of parts of Chippewa, Clark, and Taylor counties. Representatives from each of three latter counties appeared in opposition to the measure. The new proposed county bill would have Stanley as the county seat. The new county bill will have an equalized valuation of $17,729,467. It will contain 19 townships, and will have an estimated population of 18,000 people.

Declaring that the people of this section should have a new county for economic reasons, Dr. Burns, Stanley, said that the county of Pershing would have a greater valuation than 12 other counties in the state. He declared that it was over three times as great as Ozaukee, Milwaukee, Pepin, counties, and double the size of Calumet, Green Lake, Keweenaw, and Racine counties. He said that the new county would have a greater population than 23 other counties in the state.

L. E. Scott, Stanley, urged the organization of the county on the basis of benefits to farmers and rural schools, which the new county would have.

The principal argument against the bill was made by former Assemblyman E. W. Crosby, of Nellville. Crosby claims that the people within the proposed county were not enthusiastic for the change, that the idea had been boosted by leading business men of the state in order to keep that town from dying out.

Leicht, Medford, speaking against the bill said that there was no sentiment for the measure and that there was pronounced opposition in many sections against the bill.

Former Assemblyman Weston Woodard, Chippewa Falls, declared that there was no need for the creation of a new county. Former Assemblyman John Gamper charged that it was purely a real estate scheme.

WOMAN KILLED BY EXPLOSION IN YARD

(By ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Oakland, Ca., March 19.—Police and medical authorities at a preliminary autopsy early this morning developed the first clues concerning the death of Mrs. George Greenwood, who was killed in the yard of her home here last evening by a bomb explosion.

She pieces of galvanized iron telephone wire and a lead slug were found in the body, in addition to many fragments of brick.

The police today learned that in January 1918 a letter received by Mr. George Greenwood, a prominent banker, demanded delivery of $5,000 under penalty of his home being destroyed by an explosion.

The letter was signed "C. C. of C." which initials were also appended to a threatening letter received by Governor Stephens before the permanent mansion at Sacramento was dynamited.

The cruiser Charleston, also from Brest, brought 1,271 troops including the 27th and 147th aerial squadrons and casual company No. 960, Minnesota; 964 Michigan; 967 Wisconsin.

CLOTHES OF ALL KINDS WANTED FOR NEEDY, OVERSEAS

Every branch in the jurisdiction of the Rock county branch of the Red Cross has been asked to assist in the national campaign for the collection of used clothing for the joint benefit of all European countries except the central powers. The national campaign is now in progress and will continue until March 31.

Articles will be received by the committee on hospital supplies and refugee garments at the city hall. Miss Sara M. Richardson is chairman of the committee. The other members are Mrs. F. G. Cobb and Miss Gertrude Cobb. The chapter's quota is 7,500 pounds and a great effort is going to be made to "go over the top."

All Kinds of Clothing Needed.

Every kind of garment, for all ages and both sexes, is urgently needed. In addition, piece goods, light warm Canton flannel and other kinds of cloth from which to make garments for new born babies, stockings, sheets and blankets, woolen goods of any kind—and shoes of every size, are asked. Scrap leather is needed for repairing footwear.

Since the clothes will be subjected to the harshest kind of wear, only garments of strong and durable materials should be sent.

Garments need not be in perfect condition. Many thousand destitute women in the occupied regions are eager to earn a small livelihood by repairing gift clothing and making new garments adapted to needs with which they are familiar.

Used Garments Wanted.

A list of the garments wanted follows:

Men's Wear—Shirts (preferably of light colored flannels), undershirts, overcoats, jerseys, underdrawers, trousers, coats, sweaters, sweater vests, work suits, suits, shoes, stockings, corset-suits, cloth hats, petticoats, blouses, short-sleeved caps, coats, suits (two pieces), shoes, stockings.

Boys' Wear—Shirts, union suits, undershirts, coats, suits, trousers, shoes, overcoats; jerseys, socks, stockings.

Girls' Wear—Dresses, skirts, overcoats, night dresses, drawers, stockings, undergarments, petticoats, suits, blouses, waistcoats, caps, coats, cloaks, jackets, shawls.

Miscellaneous—Bed-ticks, blankets, bed sheets, nightgowns, pillows, cases.

Woolen goods of any kind whatsoever are accepted, as are hats and caps for all ages and sweaters of any kind and size. Men's shirts and pajamas, so worn and shrunken as no longer to be serviceable, are particularly welcome, since the material can be utilized for making children's garments.

Not to Be Sent. The following articles are not to be sent—Ball dresses, flimsy dresses, high hats, derby hats, trimming for hats, ready-made, umbrellas, mattresses, stockings, glassware, carpets, toys, colanders, neckties, shoe trees, crutches, canes, parasols, crockery, rugs. No food stuffs are to be sent.

REST ROOM PRAISED IN "FARMER'S WIFE"

That Janesville is noted far beyond its own borders for the hospitality offered to women in Janesville Center, as evidenced by an article which appeared recently in a magazine called "The Farmer's Wife," published at Minneapolis. The description of the local restroom compared as illustrating the possibilities of conducting such a place as a center for various community activities.

High praise was given to the convenience of the room, the comfort, and utility which it offered, especially to the county women.

The article was signed "The Prowler," evidently the writer had provided about the rest room for the women of the local restroom, as provided by the women to make the place useful and practical for its patrons.

The first plan urges that every county containing a city of the second or third class should establish a free medical and later a free dental clinic.

The second suggestion is that a service be made of the nutrition needs of the county's children, from data on the county cards and from reports of school nurses and medical inspectors.

The third plan urges that children's health conferences or baby week campaigns be held in each county.

A survey of the children in the county between the ages of 6 and 14 who are not attending school is the fourth suggestion, and it is urged that scholarships be provided to enable needy children of talent to remain in school beyond the compulsory age.

RIDE ON CONCRETE

In regard to the lunch hour she says the following:

The county school girls whose homes were just outside of town, twice little girls who knew that mother's lunch would "go" better in the Center's atmosphere. There were business women, not at all of them young, who would rather eat a sandwich in a public eating room; tired women who needed that quiet, restful atmosphere. There were working women, who had to save of nickels and pennies, and found the Center not only a saving, but a gain every day.

Then there was a crowd of girls, just girls, laughing, hurrying, joking, and I blessed the women who made and I bright home corner, down town, where girls can giggle, and sip coffee in safe surroundings.

She mentioned the advantages to the county women who brought in their babies, the women down town on a shopping expedition and waiting for trains, and closed by giving some of the details in the financial management of the institution gleaned from local officials.

The whole article commended the proposition very highly and coning as it has from a news writer of wide experience shows the generous hospitality of the Janesville women as embodied in the rest room, is thoroughly appreciated by far sighted people, even without its borders.

TRAGIC DEATH OF BABE IS TOLD BY MOTHER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Fargo, N. D., March 19.—The tragic death of a second child in the McDonnell family, as a result of inhuman treatment accorded by the father, Dan McDonnell, is told in a confession which Mrs. McDonnell, mother, is said to have made to Mrs. Jessie Schofield, nurse.

McDonnell and his wife are in jail at Jamestown charged with murdering their 12-year-old daughter, Etta.

About two years ago, according to the story, Mrs. McDonnell is said to have told Mrs. Schofield, a 2-year-old child became ill with the measles and was not properly treated.

The night during the child's illness it was breathing very heavily and angered McDonnell. Mrs. McDonnell says her husband ordered her to place the child outside the house but that she refused. McDonnell then got up, according to the story, and locked the door and went back to bed, threatening to kill Mrs. McDonnell and the child if she returned the child to the room.

Mrs. McDonnell claims she brought the child into the house after it had been exposed to the cold for more than an hour. The following day the child died.

BAKER'S FORESIGHT.

Although President Wilson, previous to his departure for France the last time, announced in substance that he would not call a special session of congress, recent developments indicate that he may have to change his mind. If he does it will be because his secretary of war, Newton D. Baker, has forced a situation which will call for immediate action.

Baker again pulled one of his prize "hones" when he rushed to the treasury department with $3,056,000,000 actual cash, which had been appropriated for the war department and turned it in, saying it was not needed.

The quartermaster general has run up the flag of distress and informed administration leaders that he must have sufficient money to carry on the work of the army. He is out of funds for transportation of troops and purchase of subsistence.

Here is the situation in a nutshell: Ample appropriations had been made by congress for the maintenance of the army. Along about January the administration pointed with pride to the economies it was effecting, not only by canceling contracts for munitions, but by turning back to the treasury, billions of dollars of appropriations "not needed." Secretary Baker, with his usual impetuosity, contributed his mite and the president will have to make a quick shift to undo the harm that has resulted.

Although the whole affair is ridiculous and confirms the general opinion that Wilson has surrounded himself with men not big enough to conduct affairs of such magnitude as have been presented to this nation since the beginning of the war, there is a serious side.

The quartermaster discovered, after his department had turned back about $82,000,000 of the entire amount restored to the treasury, that he needed $829,000,000 for the transportation of troops and for subsistence. On the eve of the adjournment of the sixty-fifth congress, the war department asked for the amount required by the quartermaster corps, but it was too late, as the legislation to which an amendment could have been attached was being swamped by the filibuster. The quartermaster is doing all he can to move troops and provide food on credit.

Unless the president changes his mind and calls a session of congress in May, dependents of soldiers and sailors will have to experience even greater delay than at present in receipt of their allowances.

Secretary Glass is scraping together every cent he can find to keep things running until the middle of May. He is trying to obtain a few millions from the president's special war fund, but Wilson already has refused the secretary of labor's appeal for funds to continue the employment bureaus, saying he did not have the money to spare.

This country wants a league of nations and we want President Wilson to have all the credit due him for any assistance he gives in bringing about a permanent organization which will not only benefit the world, but the United States; we want a lasting peace and we want every one to get a square deal. But if Wilson feels it necessary to consider world problems before tackling our own affairs which are becoming more involved, it is necessary that he provide lieutenants who have common sense enough to look after our interests on this side of the ocean.

FREE SPEECH.

Eugene V. Debs, who has been sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment in a federal penitentiary for violating the espionage act, is worried. He claims that free speech in the United States is dead. His Bolshevik friends put on a long face and mourn with him.

Truth in the contention will depend upon the definition of the term "free speech." If by free speech we mean the right to incite weak-minded men to commit murder and arson, Mr. Debs is quite correct—it is dead.

It means to discuss with freedom and publicly, all political issues, and to advocate changes for the better in a peaceful manner. Mr. Debs and his cohorts are entirely wrong—free speech is very much alive.

Debs will occupy a prison cell because he obstructed the draft and lent aid to our enemies in attempting to halt war preparations. He feels that the sentence is too much of a hardship. But suppose he had been allowed to carry on his propaganda until the end of the war, and the conflict because of his efforts, had been continued a single day longer, how many American boys would have had to give up their lives to pay for the encouragement he had given the Germans to keep on with the fight?

Debs' 10 years' imprisonment is not a drop in the bucket in comparison to the heart-anguish that would have been experienced by fathers and mothers who would have lost their sons.

The reds declare they are being deprived of the right of free speech. But what has been the nature of that free speech they have been attempting? It has been used to incite workers, earning the highest wages ever known in this nation's history to stage a revolution similar to the ones which have kept Russia and Germany in a turmoil. There is no chance that such a revolution will succeed, but by allowing that kind of "free speech" some of the weak-minded followers of these agitators might be incited to commit violent crimes.

If these agitators will advocate the use of the ballot and not bullets to bring about social revolution they will get somewhere and they will not be denied free speech. But any attempt to incite violence will not only cut off their so-called "free speech," but they will be tagged with a deportation ticket and sent back to the place from whence they came.

A man with honest convictions need have no fear that his right of free speech will be taken from him.

JUSTICE ROSENBERY.

Justice Marvin E. Rosenberry of the supreme court is seeking re-election for a full term. He was appointed to fill a vacancy and his appointment was confirmed by the people, although he had opposition.

As a jurist Justice Rosenberry has demonstrated his judicial ability. He is a capable lawyer and he fits in with the personnel of the Wisconsin high court. The personal side of the man, along with his other qualifications, make him stand out as a desirable candidate. He possesses human qualities as well as a well-trained, competent mind.

Wisconsin in the past has been fortunate in keeping her supreme court out of politics. When a member of the bench became incapacitated through infirmities of age, or was taken by death, the voters have been alert to substitute a man who would measure up to the standards of that institution.

Justice Rosenberry deserves to be returned to the supreme court without contest. The people recognize his qualifications and will send him back to his place as though his candidacy were uncontested.

Women of the United States have received much praise for the wonderful work they have done in the war. Gen. Pershing's tribute to the American nurses whose courage and devotion to duty saved thousands of lives, will live long in the memory of mothers who owe the safe return of their sons to these women.

If congress is forced to determine what is intoxicating liquor before July 1, as suggested by the Anti-Saloon league, some of our lawmakers may be in a wobbly condition before the necessary information is obtained, especially if they have to do much sampling.

Any attempt to take from the women privileges they have earned through taking up the tasks left by men sent to war will be met with cold consideration. The women won another victory when the war labor board decided that they could retain their jobs as street car employees in Cleveland.

The Sinn Feiners have determined to use militant suffrage methods in behalf of Ireland's campaign for freedom. We will wager their methods will not only be militant but more so. The percentage of broken heads will increase.

ANTIQUES.

Found in the City Museum in 2121, Broad Rail: A short piece of brass rail standing six inches from the floor, round in appearance and supported by uprights. Presented to the museum by Felix Dingweather, great-grandson of Ignatius Dingweather, who rescued it from the wreck of an old-time ginnill on July 1, 1919. It is said that the decided limp of our present race comes from the habit the ancients had of standing on one foot on these railings.

Petrified Pretzel: Once used as an article of food. Two hundred years ago men ate these things to promote thirst. In those days there was some sense to a thirst. Although the pretzel so-called, is now solid stone, it is said to be but little harder than it was when it was consumed in great quantities.

It is bent into a pretzel shape, but it is not known whether the ancients ever baked or after; but it is known that the Pretzel Benders' picnic was always a great event of the social year in some circles.

THE THINGS WE MISS.

When a friend we've loved has gone, Said far and well and traveled on, What is it we sigh to know, Who struggle still below?

What is it he took away, That we yearn for, day by day?

What is it we long to claim, Not the luster of his fame?

Is our sign of grief displayed? For the money that he made?

Do we mourn a friend because he had earned the world's applause? When his soul has left the clay, Do we miss him, day by day? And is all our sorrow for the few medals he wore?

Was his life so small and cheap, Now that he has gone to sleep, That we miss, with him away, But the glitter of display?

Oh, the things we miss, when one that we loved has traveled on, And for gold and earthly fame, For the glory of a name.

But the handclasp that was true, And the cheerful smile we knew; The glad voice that used to speak, Words of courage to the weak,

And the strength that used to share, All the griefs we had to bear.

It is not for what he had, That his absence makes us sad, It is not the touch of skill, In the hands forever still.

But that we miss, who stayed behind, But the gentle deeds and kind.

That they did to smooth our way, It's the voice that used to say, Words of comfort and of bliss,

And the vanished smile, we miss.

So favorably impressed was Dr. John Nolen, city planner, with the housing plan worked out by the Chamber of Commerce that he has written asking for a dozen copies of the plan to use in his work in the various cities he visits. Dr. Nolen's request was received this morning and a number of the booklets describing the plan were immediately mailed to him.

Dr. Nolen is a man known throughout the country for his ability in civic work and his cognizance of the successful plan worked out here is indicative of its importance.

CHURCH WOMEN BUSY FURNISHING KITCHEN

Housewife plans in regard to kitchen furnishings have been engaging the attention of the women of the Methodist church during the past few weeks, because the sum of $250. was appropriated for that purpose by the Ald. society. Yesterday a meeting of the organization was held, and a report made by the chairman of the kitchen committee, Mrs. Lewis. She stated that the new coffee urn priced at about $100. had been ordered, and she hoped that it would arrive so that the men cooks who were to serve the next brotherhood banquet would have the advantage of its use. Her associates on the committee were Messrs. St. Clair, Blinnemann, Loosman and Kearney and they were instructed to provide dishes, cooking utensils or other furnishings desired up to the amount appropriated.

Mrs. Taylor of the "Ways and Means" committee, reported from the rummage sale, that a lot of fun, and the sum of $160.60 was realized.

There was some small expense connected with the affair, which was liquidated by means of collection.

A pleasing program was given by Circle No. 6, at the business meeting.

Mr. Cox giving a couple of vocal selections, "Dear One of My Heart" and "Bring Back." Mrs. Wilkins gave the legend concerning the Cross of St. George as a reading, and Miss Elva Moore gave two patriotic readings, "The Wrist Watch Man," and "The Soldier on Crutches," the latter by Guest.

Mrs. David Holmes was present and asked for a report on the historical side of the war being collected by the Women's History class.

At the next meeting, members of Circle No. 6 will be the hostesses and all circle chairmen are requested to bring a report of the work done by their circle during January, February and March of this year. The president of the aid, Miss Dixon presided at the meeting.

A presentation of the need of a new high school was given by Mrs. Abbie Holmes who urged the women to vote on the bond issue, and show their intelligent appreciation of their interest in these educational matters.

She emphasized the idea that this vote will not for any definite site, but that money be voted for the purchase of A SITE, the building operations of which might be started this year. In any event she stated, the building would not be available until next year, and defeat of the bond issue at this time would mean that a high school would not be ready for two years. After the close of the program lunch was served by Circle No. 8 and a social hour was spent.

MISS SHAWVAN GIVES ARTISTIC MUSICAL

An enjoyable program of vocal selections was presented last evening at Library hall, by Miss Clara Shawvan under the auspices of her instructor, Professor Taylor. There was a large audience and from the first notes, their sympathetic appreciation was manifest, in the intelligent interpretation given by the artist to the wide range of voices presented.

She selected two Italian songs of which the "Addio," by Toschi, was given with the pathos and tragic intensity which its emotional quality demands.

The selection from the opera, "Salome," was sung with passionate appeal, and the singing challenge of "The Trumpeter," was sung with splendid effect.

No less happy was Miss Shawvan in the singing of joyous melody, which were each given their appropriate interpretation. This young singer has won recognition from the public, not only in the remarkable advance she has made in her chosen work, but also for the very generous use she has made of her talents, in singing for many entertainments, free of charge. Her ready response to the requests and charming personality has won for her many friends.

The program as presented was as follows:

"Should He Upbraid," Sir Henry Bishop; "Loye Me or Net," Secciali; "The Lark Now Leaves His Whiry Nest," Parker; "Cara Mia Ben," Nestor; "Addio," Toschi; "My Heart Nest," Parker; "Song of the Swell Voice," Saint-Saens; "Ave Salome," Massenet; "Sun," Buck; "Little Irish Girl," Lehr; "Song," My Mother Taught Me, Dvorak; "The Danza," Chabrier; "Down in the Forest," Ravel; "Boat Song," Ware; "I'm Waiting Awa," Poole; "The Trumpeter," Dix; "Spring Rapture," Gilbert.

HOME BUREAU HEARS S. R. O. PROPOSITION

More evidence of the city's steady growth is shown in the homes registration bureau of the Chamber of Commerce for Tuesday. Two houses, one suite of rooms for guest house-keeping, and two furnished rooms were rented, the report shows.

The registration bureau is having difficulty in keeping pace with the demands for homes and rooms. The housing corporation meeting this evening is important in that it will be the initial step in providing places to live for the large number of people coming to the city.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, March 19.—About six-five Juniors and guests enjoyed a banquet at Guild hall Monday evening. After the banquet, a short play, "Glory of the Morning," was given under the direction of Mrs. Janice Kwapil. The story was a common one of early days in Wisconsin, a French chevalier to obtain trading rights from the Winnebagos, married "Glory of the Morning," the daughter of the chieftain, falling heir to a French estate. He calmly informs his Indian wife that he has no further use for her, but insists on taking her children back to France. The choice being left to the children, the girl goes with him while the son remains true to his mother, bearing the name of his white father. Mrs. Ralph Dixon with her usual ability took the part of the Indian squaw; Miss Amy Neil, the young son, skilled in shooting with the bow and arrow; Miss Edith Clark, the daughter, who inherited the white skin of the father. Miss Lillian Neiper was scarcely recognizable as the medicine man, while Miss Delta Ross made a very dashing chevalier.

The Parent-Teacher association met at the high school Tuesday. C. M. Rittenberg spoke of plans for a new high school, and it was suggested that a mass meeting be held to discuss the matter. The high school students furnished the program.

Rev. L. H. Howard talked to the high school students Monday on his work in the Y. M. C. A. camps of southern France. Shortly before returning he ran across the following Whitewater boys at Coblenz: Paul Trautman, Harry Tripp, Harvey Kachel, James Larkin, and Arthur Kildow.

Mrs. Phil Starin, Dixon, Ill., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jacob Starin.

Glen Reider, Madison, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. George W. Brown and son, Will, are visiting at the home of Aliegh Brown, Herkimer.

WAWOMAN'S BUSINESS

BY ZOE BECKLEY

THE BRAIN-CHILD.
For a moment of two Janet felt rely to Nicoll's remarks, believed so easily yet with such deadly informativeness: "Your husband won't be at home. My secretary phoned me an hour ago. Walt is at Lucy Benton's studio."

Then Dot Crafton had hustled back from the telephone booth with the confirming news. "There! It's just as I told you, you little idealist. He's gone out. Probably this very moment he is in some gay party, and we are sitting here pitying him for his loneliness and hard work."

Nicoll's bright words released
Janet from a flood of feeling. Her numbness melted. Hot reaction sent the blood to her face, dizzy resentment to her brain. She tried hard to rouse herself. She would not give in to the worldly Dorothy a chance to gloat. Especially she would not permit Roy Nicoll to know how the detrac-tive work had shaken her faith and stirred her smoldering fears into a new fire of suspicion.

The rest of the evening was an agony. It seemed to Janet as if the stupid play would never end; that Dot Crafton would never stop her speech and let them leave the smart supper room they went to from the theater.

At last, however, Nicoll's car deposited Janet at the door of her home.

Don't you studies in having Walt watched?" he whispered as he accompanied Janet to the elevator, leaving Dot for the moment alone in the motor. "I simply couldn't see you being duped in that common, flagrant way. With all your intelligence, all your love of freedom and fair dealing, I couldn't and wouldn't see you being made a fool of."

Nicoll spoke quickly and in the low, shrill tone he could so succ-cessfully use to bear upon a woman. In spite of her love and her persisting faith, Janet's heart wept under the ring of truth Roy's words conveyed. With difficulty she looked steadily back at Nicoll, and said:

"Walt has his reasons. He has done nothing I didn't know off; nothing that disturbs me. Good night, Roy."

But her eyes were misted, her throat had a lump in it as her cold hand fumbled with her key. She would demand an explanation instantly from Walt. She would be frank. She would state the whole

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 25 years of age. Several years ago I was in love with a girl of exceptional type. She died. For a while I thought I never would get over her death. None of the girls that seemed like her and don't now—that is to me. I will admit I am very old-fashioned in my social ideas. Probably I expect more of a girl than I should.

I go to church, parties, dances and places of amusement. I seemingly I have got to the place where all girls look alike to me. I am not looking for a gold woman, and I am not pinning roses on myself. I have a nice little home, nearly paid for, and neatly furnished. I don't believe there is a man in this world who would look to have a wife any more than myself. I make a wife and can provide for a wife adequately.

Can you suggest anything for a man in my predicament? L. J.

Seek love and it will flee from thee; flee love and it will follow thee." I have quoted this old saying many times because it answers the problems of many people.

You are very young, a man of 25 is not old enough to give up hope of finding the right girl. It is useless to search desperately, because you will find her just as soon if you enjoy your work and friendships and let her appear unexpectedly.

Although you feel in a position to marry now, you will be even better prepared to take care of a wife if you have a few more years to devote to your work. Restlessness can be overcome by action only. Spend less time thinking about yourself and more time working and exercising.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 18 and I am in love with a boy, two years my senior. He has often told me how much he loves me, but has never mentioned marriage. Should we go

VENTILATION DOWN SOUTH

Up north folks have a vague idea that it must be grand to live down south through the horrid, mean old winter season. Down south folks are so afraid of frost and snow, they go to any extreme to avoid it.

In some of the schools down south they have solved the problem of avoiding fresh air by installing some boy's patent system of ventilation improved and perfected down to date. The system is a sort of hair-trigger one. Nobody can open a window while it is working, without great risk of upsetting the system.

The temperature soars to 75 degrees. The students in a school room where this system has charge of ventilation, the pupils languish and doze drowsily. The teacher becomes nauseated and faint; the microbes stir restlessly and the cooties, if any, flap their wings and crow. The teacher presently revives and staggers out into the hall. She gets an S. O. S. messenger to the school principal or somebody

Use Cocoon Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain unsulphured cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get unsulphured cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

"There, that's the sixth time since we've been sitting here that I've heard the word 'wonderful'."

We were sitting in the office of a little summer hotel last summer when the lady beside me made that exclamation. Outside the window a group of young people were chattering and the lady beside me, as she admitted, had been listening to their chatter.

"Listen she said and soon for you if you ever heard anything like it."

"Four Times In Five Minutes...."

"I listened. In a instant I was rewarded with 'The sweater is the most wonderful color I ever saw.' A minute later I heard, 'Oh let's not sit here gooping.' "Give the average young person one word for everything she likes, and another for everything she dislikes and half a dozen slang expressions," said the lady beside me. "She doesn't have any idea of the rest of the language, with the exception of a few simple verbs and nouns."

"We All Get Rants on Words. Of course, that's a rather harsh and sweeping distm, but it does certainly suggest the conversational limitations of a good many young people. Nor is it only young people who cruelly overwork words. Don't we all, young and old, get runs on this or that word or expression and work them to death?"

The effect of a very interesting day that I was reading the other day was that I was reading the other day was that I was painfu married by the author's trick of saying, "quite suddenly" over few paragraphs, I feel to watching for it, which, of course, interfered with my interest in the story.

You Should See How Many I Take Out.

Do not think I am unconscious of my own sins in this line. Such expressions as "perhaps," "of course," "rather" are my stumbling blocks, and you should see how many I take out.

"I read somewhere a criticism of a great many writers instead of saying simply and directly what they had to say, inserted such used expressions like "of course" and "to be sure." I want to thank you." "May I be allowed?" etc.

I thought the characterization of these indirections and redundancies as stammering most excellent.

Do you stammer?

self seven times, he cried out in a loud voice that Jonah was cheating, so they threw him overboard, where a whale, taking pity on him, swallowed him until they reached Tarshish and then spewed him out again.

"Anyhow I saved the other seven shekels," said Jonah, in a pleased tone of voice.

HOW IT CAME TO PASS.

"I wonder how much the beggar will charge," pondered Jonah as he trotted down Sycamore Way hence to Tarshish and thence toward the sea where stood a ship bound for Tarshish.

"How much to get across?" he asked the fellow holding down his whisk so he could see plainer, for the was a playful breeze.

"Seven shekels to get on board in Joppa and seven more when you get off in Tarshish," answered the ferryman. (See Uriah Lire's "Ancient Methods of Collecting Carfare.")

"Too Dam," much by thirteen shekels," intimated Jonah, clutching his pocket. "But there was nothing else to do but let the robber ferryman take him over. Jonah's salary for preaching in Tarshish depended wholly on silver offerings, so it behooved him to be careful.

After several days of uneventful sailing, boredom was beginning to tell on Jonah, so he wished for a tempest or something to break the monotony.

Just then he heard the jingle of coins coming up from the hatchway and going down to see what was up. He found the captain, first and second mate and several stewards shooting shekels.

Jingling his own coins carelessly in his pocket, Jonah mixed in among them and presently found himself shooting shekels until he had but one left.

"Heads I win—tails you lose!" he shouted, jocosely; and, as though there dwelt magic in the words, Jonah began to win and win; he had not only his own, but every coin on the ship.

Suddenly, one old wisenheimer, having pondered over the magic words long and after repeating them to him-

Use Cocoon Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful.

Just plain unsulphured cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get unsulphured cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

CHAPTER XII.

A Friend in the Forecastle.

I slowly opened my eyes to find myself lying in an upper bunk of the forecastle. Memory soon returned, stimulated no doubt by the aching of my body where Estada had so brutally kicked me with his heavy boot. The heavy rolling of the bark clearly evidenced that we were already at sea, and bucking against a high wind. It was a dark, dismal, smelly interior, ample large enough, but ill ventilated, and inexpressibly dirty. I must have been lying unconscious for several hours. I rested back, feeling of the numerous bruises on my body, and touching gingerly the dried blood caked on my face. No very serious damage seemed to have been done, although every muscle and tendon appeared to be strained and lacerated. Clinching my teeth to keep back a groan, I succeeded in sitting upright, my head touching the upper deck, as I undertook to survey my surroundings. About half the bunks seemed to be occupied, the figures of the sleeping men barely discernible.

As I sat there, staring about at this scene there was a stir within the upper berth on my own level, and an uplifted face appeared suddenly in the yellow flare of light. It was manifestly an English face at first glance, rosy of cheek, with chestnut beard. A pair of humorous, gray eyes surveyed me silently, and then, apparently satisfied by the scrutiny, the owner sat up in the bunk, revealing powerful shoulders, and a round, butt neck.

"Ahoy, mate," he said pleasantly, endeavoring to speak low, the effort resembling the growl of a bear. "How do you feel—pretty sore?"

"Ache from head to foot," I answered, immediately feeling his friendliness. "But no harm done."

"I saw part of it. The damn black brute kicked savagely enough, but at that you're lucky; it's the Spanish style to use a knife. I've seen that cock slash a man into ribbons for nothing at all—just to show he was bad. Haines tells me your name is Gates, and that you are English."

"That's right; I shipped first out of Bristol."

"So did I, mate—twelve years ago though, and I never went back since. My name is Tom Watkins. Let's shake; there is quite a sprinkling of us Britishers aboard, and we ought to hang together."

He put out a big, hairy fist, and I gripped it heartily, decidedly liking the man as his eyes frankly met mine.

He appeared honest and square; a fine type of the English seaman.

"Tom Watkins, you said. May I ask if you were out on the bow-sprit along with Haines last night?"

"Just afore the longboat come in? Yes, we were there."

"Well, I was down below, hanging to the cable, and overheard you two talking together. Somehow, Watkins, you do not seem to me to fit in exactly with this gang of pirates; you don't look to be that sort. How long have you been with them?"

He glanced about warily, lowering his voice until it became a hoarse whisper.

"Three years, mate, and most of that time has been hell. I haven't even been ashore, but once, and that was on an island. These fellows don't put any trust in my kind, nor give them any chance to cut and run. Once in awhile a lad does get away, but most of them are caught; and those that are sure get their punishment. They never try it again. I've seen them staked out on the sand and left to die; that ain't no nice thing to remember."

"But how did you come into it?"

"Like most of the rest, I was second mate of the Ranger, a Glasgow brig. These fellows overhauled us at daybreak about a hundred miles off the east end of Cuba. Our skipper was Scotch, and he put up some fight, but it wasn't any use. There was only three of us left alive when the pirates came aboard. One of these died two days later, and another was washed overboard and drowned down in the Gulf. I am all that is left of the Ranger."

"You saved your life by taking on?"

"Sanchez had the two of us, who were able to stand, back in his cabin. He put it to us straight. He said it was up to us whether we signed up or walked the plank; and he didn't appear to care a damn which we chose."

"And you say others of this crew have been obtained in the same manner?" I questioned, deeply interested, and perceiving in this a ray of hope.

"Not exactly—no, I wouldn't precisely say that. It's true, perhaps, that most of the Britishers were forced to join in about the same way I was, and there may be a Scandinavian or two, with a few Dutch, to be counted in that list; but the most are pirates from choice. It's their trade, and they like it. Sanchez only aims to keep hold of a few good men, because he has got to have sailors; but most of his crew are nothing but plain cut-throats. Indians and half-breeds, negroes, creoles, Portuguese, Spanish, and every mongrel you ever heard of. Sanchez himself is half French. The hellhound who kicked you is a Portugee, and Levere is more nigger than anything else. I'll bet there is a hundred rats on board this Namur right now who'd cut your throat for a sovereign."

He leaned over, motioning me toward him; until his lips were at my ear.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS

FOR THE BENETOL TREATMENT

As a means of effecting a permanent and positive recovery from indigestion, gas on the stomach, lower bowel troubles, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach, ulcerated stomach, stomach sore throat, grip, biliousness, ptomaine poisoning and all resultant or similar ailments.

For Stomach or Bowel Troubles, take 5 drops in 1/2 glass of hot water, in the morning upon first arising. Same after breakfast, dinner (or lunch) and supper and again at bedtime. This should be gradually increased from 10 to 20 drops per time.

For Grip, Sore Throat, Tonsillitis, Hoarseness, etc., make a Benetol solution by adding 25 drops of Benetol to a glass of hot water. Keep this at hand and gargle frequently, swallowing a little each time, but prepared fresh each day. For severe cases, spray with a solution of 1/2 teaspoonful of Benetol to a glass of hot water, or touch the sorest spots with pure Benetol applied by twisting a little absorbent cotton on the end of a small stick or pencil.

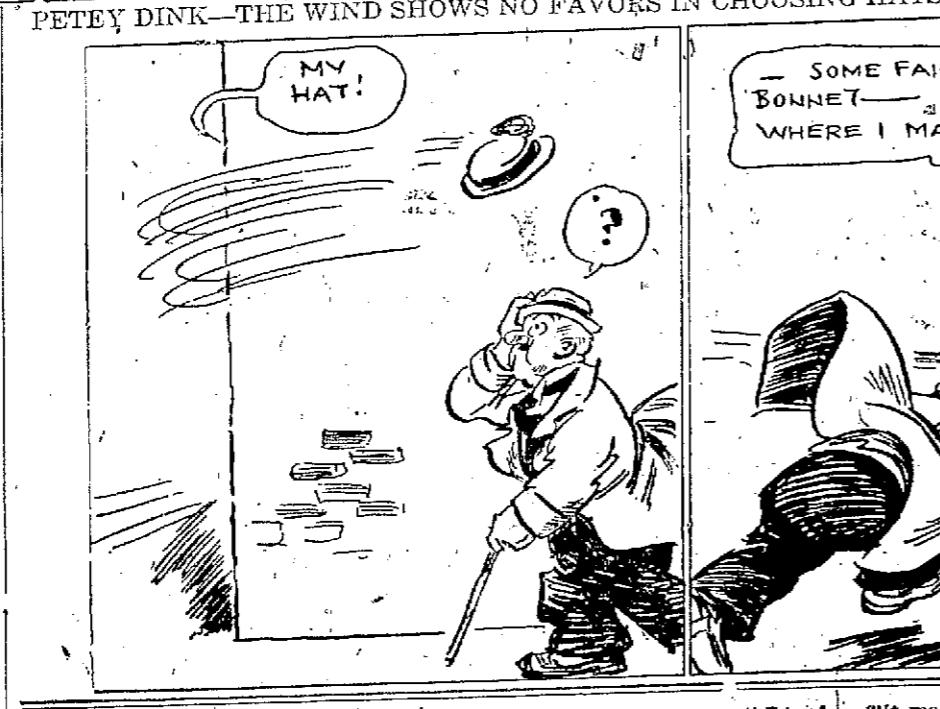

For Ptomaine Poisoning—take teaspoonful of Benetol in glass of hot water. If vomiting occurs, repeat the dose until retained by the stomach. Take thorough cathartic and if violent send for a physician. After pain ceases, continue with 10 drops of Benetol to a glass of hot water five times daily and keep bowels open with any good cathartic.

These become choked up with the accumulations, seriously interfering with the breathing apparatus, and causing untold suffering. There is usually a cough, irritated throat, soreness of the membranes and constant discomfort.

If you have ever been afflicted with Catarrh, you know something of the suffering and inconvenience the disease causes. You know, too, that it cannot be cured by the application of sprays, lotions, ointments, jellies, or other local treatment. Even if such treatment does succeed in opening the air passages.

S. S. S. has been on the market for more than fifty years, and has been thoroughly tested in thousands of cases of Catarrh. If you want to be rid of the disease, throw away your makeshift remedies, and begin on S. S. S. to-day. You will be delighted with the results, as others have been. S. S. stopped-up passages for a while, they soon become clogged again, and there is no progress made toward a cure of the disease.

In addition to the suffering and inconvenience caused by Catarrh, there is always danger that the disease will gradually go lower into the throat and attack the bronchial passages, and eventually involve the lungs. Many a case of consumption has developed from a severe attack of Catarrh.

The most satisfactory treatment for Catarrh is S. S. S., the unrivaled blood purifier, which so promptly routs the germs of Catarrh. In this way, it gets rid of the cause of the disease by going direct to its source, cleansing the blood thoroughly, and building up and renewing the entire system.
